Standing Room Only and Hundreds are Turned Away—
Evangelist Launches Attack Against "Hypocrites
And Deadbeats In Churches"

Condemning those who do not live as they would have the world believe they are living and rapping the knuckles of those members of the church who prove themselves deadbeats by refusing and neglecting to pay their honest debts, Dr. W. E. Biedewolf, evangelist, opened a series of meetings Sunday night in the monster tabernacle at Pierce and Circular-sts.

More than 7,000 were present for the opening service. The first collection totaled $260.40.

"I'm going to make it so hot for a lot of you old deadbeats," Biedewolf exclaimed, "that you'll have to wear asbestos suits."

He attacked the gossips, men and women, and urged that they place padlocks on their lips in the future.

"If Lima ever gets down on her knees in real prayer," he asserted, "there will be such a revival of the holy spirit in this city and environs as has never been witnessed in history."

SUPPORT IS PLEDGED

Thousands of people arose to their feet and pledged Dr. Biedewolf and his party their aid and support in the campaign to make Lima a bigger and better city.

The roof of the tabernacle was given its first rain test Sunday night and withstood the onslaught in a very satisfactory manner. Few leaks developed anywhere, it is stated. Referring to the rain and its possible effect on the roof, Dr. Biedewolf remarked: "Of course, I want all of you to remain dry." The crowd caught the real meaning of his remark.

Despite the rain, thousands of enthusiastic men, women and children assembled in the tabernacle for the first service. All seats were soon taken and standing room was drawn upon. Many were turned away, unable to gain admission.

"This is a fine beginning," Biedewolf said, "and should be duplicated every night during the series of meetings."

At 6:45 p. m. a negro band opened the meeting with the stirring strains of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

The young people's Christian societies of all the churches and other various classes and organizations formed at their respective churches at 6:00 p. m. and marched in a body to the tabernacle, carrying banners. R. B. MUSIC LEADER

Roland B. Mikesell music committee chairman, introduced to the audience through John Ross Reed, the musical director of the Biedewolf party who led the choir in the "Morning Chorus." "When the Roll is Called up Yonder, I'll Be There," and "Nearer My God to Thee." The choir of 350 responded quickly to his leadership and furnished the congregation with wonderful music. Reed stated after the meeting that he was never more enthused over a chorus of men and women than he is over the men and women of Lima who have so generously given themselves to this part of the services. He said he felt sure by the spirit they showed at

BROTHERS SLAIN

Bodies of Two Men Found in New Hampshire Home

OXFORD, New Hampshire (Associated Press) — County authorities began an investigation today into the deaths of John and Charles Davis, brothers, whose bodies were found at their home on the outskirts of this town yesterday.

In each case the head was crushed and beside the body of John Davis was an axe bearing signs apparently of blood. No clue to the person responsible for the deaths had been found early today. No motive was known, although robbery was suggested by the absence of several watches.

JAPS BARRED AS U. S. CITIZENS

Supreme Court Passes on Naturalization Cases

NOT WHITE, SAYS TRIBUNAL

Other Actions Disposed of by Washington Bench

WASHINGTON — (United Press) — Japanese are not white, within the meaning of the American law, and are not entitled to citizenship in the United States, the supreme court held today.

The high court affirmed a decision of the California circuit court of appeals in a test case brought by Takao Ozawa of Honolulu, who claimed he was "white" and was eligible for naturalization as an American citizen.

At the same time the court upheld the Washington supreme court in denying citizenship to Takaji Yamashita and Charles Hio Kono of Seattle.

The decision held that the two Japs were not entitled to naturalization under the United States laws and therefore could not enter a business partnership.

DECISION LONG AWAITED

The supreme court's decision in these cases has long been awaited, particularly on the Pacific coast where anti-Jap feeling exists. Ozawa contended he was entitled to American citizenship as a descendant of the white tribe of Asia. He started his fight for citizenship several years ago in Hawaii, but was defeated in the courts there and also in higher courts in California.

Ozawa has lived in Hawaii since his childhood and was educated in the American schools there. His children now attending American schools, were being brought up as American citizens.

Yamashita presented an argument similar to that of Ozawa. He appealed to the supreme court when the courts of the state of Washington denied him the privilege of incorporating a real estate company, because of his ineligibility to citizenship.

WASHINGTON (United Press) — The supreme court today upheld Texas courts in dismissing a suit for $10,000 damages brought by Rosalyn Zucht, 18-year-old San Antonio school girl because she was expelled from school for refusal to be vaccinated. The suit attacked the authority of the San Antonio school board to prescribe compulsory vaccination of pupils.

It approved the action of Texas courts in dismissing a $10,000 damages suit brought in the name of Rosalyn Zucht, San Antonio girl, who was expelled from school because her parents refused to allow her to be vaccinated.

CANTON — (Associated Press) — A resolution calling upon President Harding to consider Senator Atlee Pomerene as a suitable man to appoint as a justice of the United States supreme court to succeed Justice William R. Day, retired, was adopted today by the Stark County Bar Association, of which Judge George H. Clark, of the state supreme court, is president.

The resolution says the bar association, "without bias, recognizes thru personal knowledge the high legal attainments, lofty patriotic motives, fine personal qualities and disinterested public services" of Senator Pomerene.

A committee of Canton attorneys will present the resolution to the president.

GIBSON STORY OF MURDER DENIED

Negress Claims Witness at Her Home During Tragedy

CAUSES TURN IN PROBE

Two Women Involved Engage in Fistic Battle

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (Associated Press) — A physical encounter between women witnesses in the Hall-Mills murder mystery was the latest development in the case today.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, who raises pigs and says she saw the murder, and Mrs. Nellie Lo Russell, negress, who keeps cows and says Mrs. Gibson could not have seen the murder because she was at her house at the time, had an altercation yesterday over a pig.

Mrs. Russell admitted the encounter in an interview today but declared she was not the aggressor, adding that she harbored no ill will toward Mrs. Gibson. Mrs. Russell declined to discuss her affidavit made public yesterday for counsel for the rector's widow in which she said she was positive Mrs. Gibson was at her home at the time the "pig woman" swore she was a witness to the double murder.

NEAR NEIGHBORS

The negress lives in a one room shanty on stilts in the middle of a field not far from Mrs. Gibson's home.

Patrick Thornhill, a farmer who lives in the vicinity, and Louis Sapsy, who boards with him, declared today that the negress told them her story about a week ago. Both admitted they had paid no attention to it at the time.

Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott in charge of the murder investigation, declined to say today what effect the sworn statement of Mrs. Russell, made public yesterday, would have on his plans for early presentation of the case to the grand jury.

Mrs. Russell swore that she was with Mrs. Jane Gibson at the time the latter had stated she witnessed the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Rinehardt Mills, and Mrs. Gibson was not near the spot where the bodies were found. She said that instead Mrs. Gibson was at her house, a few hundred yards from the Gibson cottage.

Other than the statement that Mrs. Russell's affidavit would be investigated, Mr. Mott refused to comment on the new development, which attacked a vital point in the prosecution's case.

BABY'S BODY FOUND

AKRON — Sheriff Hutchinson investigated today the discovery of the body of a newly born babe near here by three hunters. The only clue to identification of the infant is a dainty lace handkerchief found near the body, marked with the initials "R. C."

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 13 — Fourteen hundred persons lost their lives in a devastating earthquake and tidal wave, which rent the coast of northern Chile Saturday, according to the most accurate available estimates today.

Starvation, pestilence and exposure are claiming a heavy toll in the wake of the disaster and relief caravans are rushing to aid the inhabitants of the stricken territories.

Communication with the shattered towns along the coast from Valparaiso to Antofagasto, the district which bore the brunt of the shock and the upheaval of the Pacific was still disrupted, but couriers brought word to the capital of whole villages levelled by the quake, with dead and survivors, wounded, lying by hundreds in the streets.

SHOCK FELT OVER ENTIRE SOUTH AMERICA, REGISTERED IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD

Vallenar, Copiapo and Coquimbo, three little coastal towns suffered most from the great shock at 12:20 a. m. Saturday. They were inundated by a rush of the Pacific which followed the first earth tremors. But little villages farther back in the hills appear also to have suffered terrible loss of life and destruction of property which it may never be possible to estimate.

There were reports that whole communities may be wiped out.

The largest quake, felt over the entire South American continent and registered on seismographs all over the world, lasted for over three hours, although it was perceptible to the senses only two minutes. That was sufficient to drive those whose houses withstood the shock, in terror to the streets, where many in coastal villages, were drowned by the terrific tidal wave which lifted its millions of tons of water a thousand feet over the unprotected houses along the shore.

The thousands slept in the open last night, afraid to return to their tottering houses or even to those that had withstood the shock for fear of a repetition of the quake.

Slight tremors were felt Sunday afternoon, spreading panic among the natives for 300 miles along the coast.

RELIEF WORKERS BUSY
Couriers came to Santiago today from Vallenar and Copiapo to arrange for caravans to take food and medicines to the stricken towns. The former place, they declared, was practically obliterated. All the buildings, except the school house, lay in ruined heaps of mortar, brick and adobe. Half the buildings in Copiapo were buried from their foundations by the shock, the couriers reported. Those that remained standing were uninhabitable.

Injured and sick are being treated in the streets and public squares. Starvation is already in sight at Vallenar, while disease has begun to spread among the quake victims who are huddled together in rude shelters in the plazas.

Ramon Alcazaga, a prominent Chilean engineer, was one of the first to bring a reliable eyewitness story of the desolation and disaster that was spread thru the north. He declared contagious diseases are spreading like wildfire and that many are threatened with death from exposure and hunger.

DEAMATIC STORY
Arriving at La Serena, Alcazaga told a dramatic story of the destruction of the jail at Vallenar, which as usual, was crowded with prisoners

"TRIUMPHS OF M. JONQUELLE"—GRIPPING MYSTERY SERIAL

THIS CHAPTER BEGINS SERIES OF GREAT SHORT STORIES—TODAY'S STORY WILL BE COMPLETED IN THREE DAYS

By MELVILLE DAVISSON POST

THE MOTTLED BUTTERFLY
The opera had opened. The music began to fill the corridors. But M. Jonquelle did not go in.

He remained idling in the foyer, a cigarette in his fingers, his manner and air, a well-bred, bored indifference. The whole house was crowded. There was not a vacant seat.

It was the last performance in Paris of Mme. Zirtzenoff's Salome. A few belated persons passed M. Jonquelle and entered the doors to the boxes. Some of these persons addressed him; all regarded him. He was a well-known figure in Paris. His friendship was worth something, and whether one knew him or cared to know him, all were curious about the man.

The vast music assembled and extended itself. The foyer became empty, and still M. Jonquelle did not go in. He was still because Mme. Zirtzenoff had not gone on. She was a famous beauty, her Salome had the abandon which stimulated even the jaded nerves of France. It had been on at the Opera for fifty days, and Paris was still keen to see it.

The woman was a Russian exotic, one of those alluring creatures that always assemble a fabulous legend. There was a wild passion in her Salome, and her conquests were the gossip of Paris.

The opera had continued for perhaps thirty minutes. Mme. Zirtzenoff had come on; her voice, like a silver bell, reached M. Jonquelle clearly where he sauntered in the foyer.

opened and one of the pages of the theater appeared with an immense bouquet of orchids. The flowers were worth a thousand francs. They could have been grown in Paris only with extreme care and under every perfection of light and temperature. It was a mass of flowers that would have drawn the attention of anybody, exquisite orchids of the genus Oncidium Kramerii, called the Mottled Butterfly.

It seemed to have drawn the attention of M. Jonquelle. He stopped the page as he passed him.

"Garçon," he said, handing him a piece of gold, "find me a box of cigarettes before you go on with those flowers. Quickly—run; I will hold them until you return."

The boy knew the great chief of the Service de la Surete.

He gave M. Jonquelle the bouquet of orchids and disappeared down the stairway. He was gone hardly a moment; when he returned, M. Jonquelle had not moved from the position by a pillar of the foyer. He handed back the orchids to the page and received the box of cigarettes.

He paused a moment, fingered the box but did not open it; instead, he walked a few steps down the foyer and entered the box from which the page had come out with the orchids.

One looking on would have wondered why the Prefect of Police required a pack of cigarettes, at the cost of a ten-franc gold-piece especially as, after having turned it in his hand, he had put it carefully into his pocket and entered a box.

It would appear that he waited for these cigarettes before entering the box. But to what end? One could not smoke in a box at the Opera, at its most expensive point in the ultra-fashionable audience of Paris. Altho the great opera house was packed with people—not a vacant seat visible to the eye—there was but one person in the box which M. Jonquelle had entered.

He was a person that anyone would pause almost anywhere to observe. He was young; he was exquisitely dressed—a dress in which there was some of the over-extravagance of detail, that suggestion of elegance, which the Parisian cannot avoid.

He was a young man and extremely handsome, a blond French type with a dainty mustache and regular Italian features, and thick, soft, yellow hair presenting the gloss of the seal's coat. In his physical aspect, for perfection of detail, the man had no equal on the Paris boulevards.

It had got him a rich American wife and lifted him, as by a fairy lamp, out of the sordid environments of an old family in decay. The thing seemed a piece of the design of a Providence with an aesthetic sense.

This exquisite person would have been incongruous except in an atmosphere of wealth. He had an apartment now beyond the Arc de Triomphe, one of those wonderful apartments that the American invasion after the Great War had set up in Paris.

The Marquis was the envy of the boulevardier.

But it was rumored that he had not the freedom of his wife's money sacks. He got what she allowed him but it ought to be written here, in justice to the Marquis, that it was not he who complained. Why should he? The allowance was evidently enough for any reasonable man. He had the best of everything; if he felt any sense of sting, there was no sign either by word or act.

In form, the Marquis was above reproach. There could be no surprise to the fashionable audience of Paris in the fact that the Marquis was alone in the box. His wife, as on a visit to America, and it was better fitting that the Marquis should be alone than to be with another who might console him for his wife's absence. If the Marquis was not the best of men, he was at any rate not the least discreet.

He rose and bowed when the Prefect entered.

"Ah, monsieur," he said, "I am charmed to see you; Mme. Zirtzenoff will be even worth an hour of the priceless time of the Prefect of Paris. . . . I shall be honored to have you as guest; pray sit down."

He waited until the Prefect looked a moment over the vast audience, brilliant and distinguished; a moment at Mme. Zirtzenoff on the distant stage; and then he addressed his host.

"Monsieur," he said, "Mme. Zirtzenoff is, I imagine, beyond rubies. But I have not come here to observe her; I have come to ask you about the robbery in your apartment. That was an extraordinary robbery."

"It was most extraordinary, monsieur," replied the Marquis. "The whole of Paris regretted that you were out of France at the time. Where were you, monsieur?"

Then the Marquis added with a laugh:

"You cannot be expected to tell that; you protect us, monsieur, by your mystery. If the Lecca could say, 'Tomorrow M. Jonquelle will be in Brussels,' we should not have a jewel or a five-franc piece remaining to us."

"Alas, monsieur," replied the Prefect, "you do me too much honor; there are a number of very good men with the Service de la Surete quite as capable as I to protect Paris."

The Marquis laughed.

"You have an affection for your associates, M. Jonquelle, that I fear clouds your intelligence. Nothing could have been managed more stupidly than the investigation of my apartment in your absence, monsieur, you cannot imagine into what hopeless commonplace the investigation of a criminal affair in Paris can descend.

"Alas, monsieur, there is a gulf fixed between Alexander and the lieutenants of Alexander. But for my own feeble efforts, nothing would have resulted from the police investigation in my apartment. The necklace of diamonds which the Marquis purchased for five hundred thousand francs—acquired from the crown jewels of Russia—would have disappeared without a clue to the thief. As it happened, he was brought to justice; he confessed and was sentenced for an indefinite period by the court. But for me—and again the Marquis laughed—"there would have been no thief sentenced."

Your inspectors, monsieur, were ridiculous. There was humility in the Prefect's reply.

"And the Marquis Chantelle was magnificent! His fame in the affair has reached me; he is the admiration of the Surete. I have come, monsieur, to verify the details, and from yourself. I do not know what rumor may have added or omitted."

He bowed slightly, like one would add a gesture of compliment to his words.

"Willingly, monsieur," replied the Marquis. "I shall be charmed to verify details; but you will pardon me if I am moved to ask you of this mystery. You must have an opinion, monsieur, if you do not have an explanation, in fact."

He turned a little in his seat.

"Monsieur," he said, "how did it happen that when we had fixed this robbery upon Jean Lequer, a member of the Lecca, he admitted it before the court and asked for an immediate sentence? But he would admit nothing else; he would not say what he had done with the necklace or where it was.

"That was a strange position for a man to take, monsieur. He could hope nothing from the judge. Why confess? It would not lighten his sentence; and after all, our evidence against him was circumstantial. Why did he not say what he had done with the necklace? The judge would have reduced the sentence. Why conceal it, monsieur, and go for this long period of solitude? Did he hope to escape?"

M. Jonquelle spoke with decision. "He did not."

"Then, monsieur," continued the Marquis, "why did he refuse to say where the necklace was? Of what service would be the necklace to him after twenty years?"

Again M. Jonquelle replied directly and with decision.

"Of no use, monsieur; the man did not expect it to be of any use to him."

"Then, monsieur," continued the Marquis, "why is the name of heaven did he not say where this necklace was, and thereby reduce his sentence?"

M. Jonquelle seemed to reflect.

"You have asked for my opinion," he said, "I think I can do better than give an opinion. I think I can tell you precisely the reason why Jean Lequer, when he confessed this crime before the court, refused to say what had become of the necklace."

Another installment of "The Mottled Butterfly" will appear in our next issue.

VENUE CHANGE IS ASKED BY HINES

Slayer of Robert Halloran Begins Fight on Motion

RESISTED BY LIPPINCOTT

Negro Fears Justice Would be Denied Him Here

Battle to shift the trial of Otis Hines, negro waiter, who shot and killed Robert Halloran, 19, in E. McKibben-st., from Allen-co. to the common pleas court Monday. Motion for a change of venue was filed with the clerk of courts. The motion asks that the court grant a change of venue as a measure of protection to the accused.

Hines' case, which was scheduled to come to trial Monday, was postponed several days ago on account of his condition. The negro recently submitted to a second surgical operation. At present he is unable to withstand the strain of a hard fought court trial, his counsel argue.

REASON'S GIVEN
Motion filed in court asks that the place of trial be shifted to an adjoining county, for three reasons. First, that the defendant because of local interest and sentiment cannot obtain a fair trial in Allen-co. Second, that if compelled to go on trial before an Allen-co. jury he will be deprived of the equal protection of law. Third, that if tried in Allen-co. he will lose the guarantee granted to all citizens under the bill of rights in both the constitution of Ohio and the constitution of the United States. The date and time for arguing the motion for a change of venue has not been set. Judge Fred C. Becker declared Monday. He will do so soon, however, he indicated.

LIPPINCOTT OPPOSED
Every effort will be exhausted to try Hines in Allen-co., Prosecuting Attorney Eugene C. Lippincott, said Monday. "I have no reason why he cannot obtain justice here. If guilty, he should be found so; if innocent, acquitted."

Hines shot Halloran in an altercation in E. McKibben-st. during the height of the shopmen's strike. He told police when arrested that he had been assaulted. Hines was attached to the dining car service of the B. & O. Railroad as a waiter and cook.

He was held to the grand jury by Judge Emmott J. Jackson on a charge of first degree murder. An indictment was found against him. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned.

LIQUOR CLEANUP AT KENTON

Four Taken on Rum Charges—One Pleads Guilty

KENTON — (Special) — First arrests in a drive launched by Phil J. VanNatta, chief of police, to curb lawless conditions here were made Sunday night and Monday when four men were taken in custody on liquor charges.

They are: Trell Williams, 48, and Ben Wilmouth, 46, arrested for illegal sale and possession; Tom Bailey, 48, and James Madden, 44, on similar charges.

Chief Van Natta and Officer S. Johnson, arrested Williams in a shack back of a saloon. He was in the act of selling a pint to Wilmouth, police say.

Tolson later in the evening hid in a dark hallway and witnessed the sale of liquor by Bailey to Madden, he asserts.

Bailey entered a plea of guilty in court Monday and paid a $100 fine. A six months workhouse term was suspended on good behavior.

WARTIME ROMANCE ENDS IN COURT; MRS. JUDKINS WINS DECREE OF DIVORCE

A romance which had its inception in the stirring days of the world war, came to a disastrous ending in common pleas court Monday when Theresa Leola Judkins, 13-1/2 S. Main-st., obtained a divorce from Francis J. Judkins, Canadian hero.

They were married in 1914 and shortly after Judkins went to Canada and enlisted for overseas duty. The glamour of military life turned him from her. Mrs. Judkins told Judge Becker. He went about with other women and spent his money entertaining them, she said. She was compelled to work, the wife asserted.

Alimony amounting to $500 was awarded the plaintiff, together with the sum of $25 for support of Thurston, their little son, who was placed in the mother's custody. Also etao shr emf etao etao

ARLIE LEGO WINS DECREE ON GROUNDS OF NEGLECT

Archie Lego was divorced from Elizabeth Lego after a hearing in common pleas court Monday. He was awarded the care and custody of his children, but the mother was given the right of reasonable visitation by the court.

Gross neglect of her household work was testified to by the husband. Lego told the court he was absent from home at times, because he worked at night.

A son testified regarding promise of presents made by his mother if he did not tell about her conduct.

ROTARIANS HEAR BIEDERWOLF
Evangelist Says Man's Greatest Duty is to His City

Man's greatest duty is to his city, Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, evangelist and Rotarian, told members of the Rotary club at the luncheon Monday noon at the Hotel Norval.

Population of the cities is increasing to such an extent that if the same rate continues, in 20 years there will be 35,000,000 more people in them than are in the country districts, he said.

For this reason the demands upon those living in the cities are increasing and many new problems are being seen which need the thought and interest of business men for their solving, he pointed out.

Need for adequate finances for the construction of sewers, building of streets, maintaining of police and fire departments is great, Dr. Biederwolf said, and citizens should be willing to pay taxes to a reasonable amount for their upkeep.

Support of the city's charitable institutions by gifts of a portion of the funds which business men make from their efforts and industries was also advocated by Dr. Biederwolf. Charity should begin at home, he said.

John Ross Reed, musical director of the evangelistic meetings now in progress, sang several solos prior to the talk by Rotarian Biederwolf.

Next Monday's meeting will be held at the Hotel Norval at 8 p. m. instead of noon, it was announced.

Dr. Biederwolf, a columnist for the Scripps-McRae syndicate will talk informally on "Back to Normalcy." This meeting will be for Rotarians and their guests.

KITCHEN CABINET THEFT AT SCOTTS CROSSING IS CHARGED TO LIMA MAN

Theft of a kitchen cabinet belonging to Howell Jones, residing near Scott's Crossing, east of Delphos, is charged against Clarence Sawmiller, Lima, whose arrest was sought Monday by Constable George Hoffer.

Jones swore out a warrant in the court of Justice of the Peace D. M. Bliss at Delphos, alleging Sawmiller removed the cabinet Sunday from the storage place in a home from which he recently moved to a new location nearby, leaving his household goods stored.

The owner declared he saw Sawmiller driving a car in the neighborhood Sunday with a huge bulk carrying the cabinet. But it was covered up and he could not tell exactly what it was, Jones declared.

Other articles, canned goods and small utensils also have been missed according to Jones.

Value of the kitchen cabinet is given at $25, not enough to make the charge grand larceny.

BELLAMY STORER TAKEN BY DEATH

Former Diplomat of Cincinnati Dies in Paris

RECALLS SENSATIONAL CASE

Removed as Ambassador at Vienna by Roosevelt

PARIS — (Associated Press) — Bellamy Storer, long prominent as an American diplomatist, died last night in a hotel here, where he was staying with Mrs. Storer.

CINCINNATI — (Associated Press) — Bellamy Storer, attorney and former diplomat of Cincinnati, died in Paris, France, last night, according to a cablegram received in Cincinnati today.

The cablegram was received by Philip Hinkle of the Central Trust Company of this city, who was in charge of part of the Storer estate in this city.

The circumstances of the death of Mr. Storer was not stated in the cablegram but it is known that the former ambassador had been in ill health for the past year.

FORMER CONGRESS MEMBER
NEW YORK — (Associated Press) — Bellamy Storer who died in Paris yesterday was American ambassador to Austria-Hungary in 1902-06, and before that had been minister to Belgium and Spain. He represented the first Ohio district in the 52nd and 53rd congresses. He was born in Cincinnati August 28, 1847 and was graduated from Harvard College in 1867. He entered the law two years later and was appointed an assistant United States attorney of the southern district of Ohio.

Mr. Storer's death recalls the diplomatic sensation of a decade and a half ago when he was summarily removed as ambassador at Vienna by the then President Roosevelt.

It was Mr. Storer's wife, who was Maria Longworth of Cincinnati, about whom revolved the strife incidental to the dismissal. She was the "My Dear Maria" in the remarkable series of letters written by the late president and published by Mrs. Storer in defense of her contention that her husband's removal had been an injustice.

It was she, too, who was charged by the president with responsibility for the complications which caused her husband's removal. Mr. Roosevelt, in defense of his action, accused Mrs. Storer with having delved too deeply in affairs of state and with seriously involving the United States with the Vatican in Rome, and with the governments of France, Spain and Austria-Hungary.

The letters and the Roosevelt's had been intimate friends for many years. Mrs. Storer, aunt of Nicholas, Longworth, Mr. Roosevelt's son-in-law, was Godmother to Kermit Roosevelt and Mr. Storer had served in congress when Mr. Roosevelt was a member of the civil service commission.

COMMISSION-MANAGER GOVERNMENT WILL BE DEBATED IN DELPHOS

Adoption of the city manager type of government for Delphos will be the question discussed by students at Delphos high school at the annual Thanksgiving Day program, November 29, in Jefferson auditorium.

"Resolved that Delphos should adopt the city manager type of government," will be the terms in which the proposition is couched. Some interesting information on the motion picture will be obtained and it is believed the debate will be heard by a capacity audience, it is stated.

Principal Warner has arranged other suitable features for the program, including a musical and play. The program will wind up school affairs for the day and classes will then be dismissed for the Thanksgiving vacation.

COAL PRICE IS INCREASED

Small Boost in Cost of Fuel for Lima and Environs

ADMINISTRATOR'S FIGURES
Allowance to Dealers for Handling is Fixed

A small increase in the price of bituminous coal in Lima is expected to follow action by State Fuel Administrator Neal, who issued an order Monday morning increasing the retail dealer's margin of profit 25c per ton, according to local dealers.

Besides the increase due on soft coal, anthracite and coke margins have been increased 50c a ton. These margins of profit are fixed by the state fuel officer and arbitrator may charge for handling coal from the time he unloads it from the cars until it is delivered to the consumer.

PRICE REVISION
State Fuel Administrator Neal today announced revisions of retail coal dealers' margins through the state, ranging in decreases of five cents per ton in Lucas-co. to 45 cents per ton in Mahoning-co. and increases from five cents per ton in Hardin-co. to 72 cents per ton in Jefferson-co., according to reports from Columbus.

The increases and decreases, Neal said, approximate an average increase of 25 cents a ton in the cities and eight cents a ton in the cities and eight cents in the rural districts. The revision was made, Administrator Neal said, after audits of the coal trade had been made by certified accountants and in accordance with cost factors shown by the audit.

The fuel administrator also announced an extra allowance to retailers of 50 cents a ton for coke and anthracite. Another special rate of 10 cents per ton is allowed for "hill delivery" for certain sections of Cincinnati also was allowed.

The new retailers' margins which go into effect November 18, vary from $1 per ton in Hocking-co. to $2.75 per ton in Toledo and all Cuyahoga-co. Reductions effected under the new scale are:

Forty-five cents, Mahoning-co.; 40 cents, Erie, Hamilton, Medina, Stark and Summit-co.; 35 cents, Wayne-co.; 20 cents, Ashland, Clarke and Trumbull, 15 cents, Columbiana, Darke, Fairfield, Geauga, Knox, Lake, Lorain, Pike, Richland, Ross, Sandusky and Williams-co.; 10 cents, Logan, Seneca and Madison-co.; five cents, Fulton, Marion, Miami and Van Wert-co.

Cities where increases have been allowed include:

Steubenville 72 cents; Toledo 60 cents; Portsmouth 55 cents; Delaware 50 cents; Marietta 48 cents; Hamilton, Middletown, Springfield, Dayton and Canton, 40 cents; Findlay, 35 cents; Youngstown and Akron 30 cents; Columbus and Marion 25 cents; Lima, Bucyrus and Mansfield 20 cents; Sandusky 10 cents.

TOLEDO LAD "HOPS" TRAIN, IS CARRIED TO DELPHOS; RETURNED TO PARENTS

When you "hop" a freight train, be sure you know it will stop at the place you desire; but if it doesn't, hang on.

Jesse Martin, 13, son of J. B. Martin, 1208 Colburn-st., Toledo, learned this by experience Sunday when he boarded a Clover Leaf train near his home for the purpose of riding to the outskirts of the city. But it did not stop and he was carried to Delphos.

The boy came to Delphos police headquarters and asked for a "top." For some reason he did not accept the jail hospitality at once and wandered around until 4 a. m. Monday, when Patrolman Fred Boiley picked him up at the Clover Leaf depot, cold and frightened.

Police telephoned his mother and she made arrangements to dispatch a ticket for his return home.

More than anything else, Jesse fears what his school teacher will say. Monday was the first day he was absent from his studies since beginning of school in September, he said.

Jesse knows all about trains, for his daddy is a conductor on the New York Central Lines, but he sure had that southbound Clover Leaf figured wrong, he ruefully agreed behind the bars of his temporary lodging place.

CONFISCATION OF SCALE REPORT IS ERRONEOUS

Report received by police Thursday of last week that a set of scales at the Butler Drug store, Main and Kirby-st., had been confiscated, was said Monday morning to be erroneous.

Report of the investigating officer, which was not copied correctly by the desk sergeant, stated that the drug store owner had refused to permit the city sealer of weights and measures to inspect the scale and that it had been taken away.

Investigation, however, showed that the drug store owner said he did not wish to pay for the inspection of some unused metric weights and offered to have them confiscated.

EVANGELISM IN LIMA

COMING of the Biederwolf evangelistic party to this city for a six weeks' tabernacle campaign against sin, aided by the collective membership and the pastors of the Protestant churches, bids fair to accomplish no small amount of good for the citizenship generally.

Lima is probably no worse nor better than the average city of its size but a campaign of this sort cannot but have its good effect. Altho it was many years ago that Billy Sunday held forth from a tabernacle platform here for several weeks, the results of his labors, given aid by good men and women, are still felt in the avenues of activity in Lima.

Pastors of churches assert that there are many of their best members and most indefatigable christian workers who were directed into the churches thru the medium of the Billy Sunday campaign against evil. In view of this fact, it is reasonable to believe that the special effort which has been launched to get the skirts under the arts of satan as practiced on the unwary will be conducive of results that will be for the lasting good of Lima.

It is taken as a sort of penitential period, when a forceful evangelist comes to the city, backed by the pastors of the churches and the members of the various religious bodies. Every so often the larger cities need an organized movement of this kind, even as the smaller places must have their mid-winter church revivals.

Dr. Biederwolf is famous in his line and has surrounded himself with others who are also specialists in their particular work. Lima people may as well decide at once to admit that the job to which the evangelistic party and the good men and women of the city have addressed themselves will be accomplished. Plans made have not provided for failure. Success is the goal. There can be no other result with such numbers, zeal, enthusiasm and determination as has already been manifested.

The reception given Dr. Biederwolf in the opening service Sunday night is proof of that statement.

DONAHEY'S HANDS TIED

WHILE the Democratic party as a nation-wide political institution is fortunate in that it did not gain control of congress in the recent election, the situation in the state is exactly the reverse.

A. Vic Donahey, Democrat, elected governor, is facing a strenuous two years as the chief executive of Ohio. The overwhelming majority of Republican members of both houses of the general assembly, prevailing at the present time, has been reduced materially, but not sufficiently so to be of aid to Governor Donahey in correcting many alleged abuses that have been and still are existing as a result of the Davis administration "running wild."

Thruout his campaign, Donahey pleaded with the electorate in the state to give him a "friendly" legislature in event he should be elected governor. In many counties and districts an effort was made to heed the request, but in too many instances it fell short of desired results. Having control of many government agencies, conferred by the reorganization bill designed by Governor Davis, Donahey will be enabled to keep some of his specific promises to the people, but for the most part of the way he must have the aid and cooperation of the general assembly. Under the circumstances and in the light of past history, it is not likely that the necessary aid will be accorded.

Consequently, when Governor Donahey is called upon to give an accounting of his administration and achievements are compared with campaign promises, the electorate of Ohio must in fairness remember that it laid obstacles in Donahey's path when it elected him to clean up the government of this state.

The measure of success or failure that may be his is dependent upon the attitude of what can only be termed an "unfriendly" legislature. The people of Ohio must not lose sight of this fact, later on, if inclined to criticize the Donahey administration.

By failing to give him a Democratic legislature, the people have, figuratively speaking, tied Donahey's hands.

RUTHLESS

INTERESTING new book is Sir J. Rennell Rodd's "Social and Diplomatic Memories, 1884-93." He quotes Bismarck as saying:

"I want your countrymen to know that it was I, and only I, who alone made this German Empire. And how do you think I accomplished this? How did I succeed in crushing every man who stood in my way? All this I achieved through cunning. I set one man against another, and again and again I broke them."

In Germany, today, you see what it all led to. In America we are making similar mistakes, playing man against man.

A Page from the Diary of an Acquainted Reporter: Up to the song of the winter birds. And down to radishes and a jelly omelette. Thence out on the Speedway, narrowly missing a hospital fog. At the post, gay greetings from two creditors, an unusual event.

In the paper reader where a blackmail queen has revealed the secrets of her craft. It should be as interesting as the memoirs of a successful bootlegger. About the town, bowing here and there, meeting Dan Morris, the banker, Messrs. Hart Schaffner & Marx's right bower in this territory. At The Normal saw a painted lady trying to corral a Mennonite from near Bluffton. But didn't. Chatted with S. W. Baker and Louise Hoffman, of the Loco. Thence, to exchange tales with Harry O. Bentley, the peerless one.

The towns and the talk all about Armistice Day and Jack Beall's big parade. The overseas boys looked fine. As also the ones who will be first called. If the Turks keep on wanting the earth, Co. C and our own light battery. Yet a hush fell on the vast assemblage along the line of march, as the "boys" of '61-'65 came riding by. No longer on parade, no longer keeping step as they did to the fife and drum sixty years ago.

Lunched on lamb chops, with apple sauce. And no sweet. Which caused unpleasantness between my wife, poor wretch, and myself. The first disagreement we have had since we saw East Lynne under Howard Hyde's management of The Faunt. Out, with a great peevish, and viewed the dolls in a big store's window. My heart softening. So bent low as Emmett Curtin, the banker, was leading by the hand Alan Brady, the II. And shook hands with the manly chap. And he wanted to know if he could see Mutt & Jeff if he came down to The News office.

In the afternoon, to Bill's for a trim, and the parson bustled so, Bill himself gave me a smooth once over, adding Lilac and Wildroot to care for the change. Capt. Butts, the famous boot manure, now at the Lake Erie shops, walked in Smoking a seegar as long as a grocery bill.

There's Dan Miller and haven't seen him in months. Spoke in fyne friendliness to Chief Lanker, and congratulated him upon his plan. To have the police laid off sixty days a year. But it wouldn't work with our printers. You know they have to eat those sixty days, just like the other days. If some pan could be devised where they could safely fast and sleep in the streets, it would solve the problem of the millions.

The flappers seem to be shying away from woolen hose, albeit staying loyally to low kicks. Walked in hope of seeing a friend but met no one except Austin Potter, the banker. Coming from the post, bowed to Dr. F. G. Steuber, the eminent specialist. In the evening, came neighbors. After a gay game of checkers, changed to Authors. Thence, served a beaker of milk and peanut sandwiches. And so, heavily to bed.

COMING EVENTS CAST THEIR SHADOWS BEFORE

SHORT ONES

One thing back to pre-war prices is Red Cross seals.

Peace is four years old and will amount to something if it lasts.

Farmers now have all the modern inconveniences of a city home.

The melancholy days have about gone, but they certainly were fine.

Business tip: Great many coal dealers are buying adding machines.

Election returns show the wine and beer issue won everywhere and lost everywhere.

One nice thing about your enemies is you can blame things on them instead of yourself.

Many a married man stays at home at night because he has the house all to himself.

So many fires are being reported all landlords may start collecting the rents in advance.

Louisiana couple has four sets of twins. That's thirteenth. They are cheaper two at a time.

Business is better. After being closed three years the Dover, N. H., jail has 16 prisoners now.

The bathing beauties have left the magazine covers. They are busy posing for 1923 calendars.

In Paris, they are sewing on silk eyelashes. That's a new way of keeping their lamps trimmed.

Just when women were doing nicely in politics someone springs the report it makes them fat.

We can all be thankful this Thanksgiving clocks don't make as much noise as railroad trains.

Efficiency consists in doing two things at once because you are too lazy to do them one at a time.

They have quit asking "Am I the first you ever loved?" They ask "Am I the last you will lie to?"

THE PERILS OF THE MEDICINE

Some such epiphany as this might be written for a good many harmless, unsuspecting creatures who have risen in the night and gone to the medicine cupboard to get a dose of physic or salutarin.

Here rest the remains of poor, Elmer Hubbard.

His wife kept the key in the medicine cupboard.

An adequate stock of household remedies, both for minor and for accidents, may be kept on hand without endangering any one's life even the blunders he made. There is really no good excuse for keeping poisons of any kind in the home, and particularly when there are young children in the house. Whenever a child gets hold of strychnin in pretty sugar coated pills or tablets and eats enough to bring on fatal convulsions, the guilty person ought to be punished, for in such cases somebody has certainly been guilty of reprehensible carelessness.

Likewise it is criminally careless to keep such poisons as carbolic acid or corrosive sublimate (bichloride of mercury) in the house. I would plead especially to mothers who may read this, that they destroy or properly dispose of any such poisons they may have in the house now, and in arranging the family medicine chest or cupboard see to it that nothing of a poisonous or dangerous nature is permitted to have a place on the shelves.

I am going to give here a complete list of remedies and articles, sufficient and appropriate for the emergency chest and medicine cupboard, and from long experience I feel warranted in saying that my medicine cupboard is practically fool proof. At any rate I believe it has no fatalities to its credit, and that is more than most family medicine chest can boast.

It is well to have a separate cabinet or cupboard or box or chest which may be kept locked or at least high above the reach of a curious child—not so much for the child's safety in this case but to protect the remedies. Other articles, such as toilet accessories and the like, should not be kept in the medicine cupboard. Modern surgeons do a fair lot of hand washing and scrubbing, but they don't do it in the same room where they operate. The medicine cupboard may be kept in the bathroom, but that is as far as the intimacy should go. The medicine and emergency chest should be about one foot by 15 inches and some five inches deep. This should suffice for a regular old fashioned family, or for two or three modern families. Tomorrow I shall publish the list of contents for the family medicine chest.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q. I have three school girls and we would like you to print a solution for removing superfluous hair. Please give us complete directions when you print the solution.—A. A. And.
A. Answer—There is no such solution I assure you, ladies. Of course there are chemical powerful enough to dissolve off hair, but such chemicals are far too irritating to the skin. A safety razor will remove hair, when hair must be removed, as effectively and more safely than any chemical solution, or other depilatory preparation. But my advice is that you should not attempt any solution or shaving, for when

INVITATION

Up in the forest now the leaves are falling,
Mating the earth with red and brown and gold,
The birds, ere long, will hear the southland calling;
The autumn days are bright, the nights are cold.
And as I struggle at my daily labor
Soft in my ears comes whispering a breeze
Which says, "Come out, the forest calls you, neighbor!
There are no lovelier days and nights than these."

"The brisk air sets your pulses beating quicker,
Life is stinger in the gorgeous days,
Each breath you take is like a draft of jhor,
The woods with many colors are ablaze;
Gone is the summer's languor, but the water,

Clear, cold and limpid, laps the pebbly shores,
Nature is fairer than you ever thought her,
Now is the time to seek the Out-of-Doors.

"Come, slip away. Put on your old attire,
Tempt some good pal to come along as well,
Think of the nights beside a crackling fire,
Think of the frosty mornings and the sun,
Of bacon in the pan, the fragrant savor
Of boiling coffee in the morning glow.
These are the Days! You hesitate you waver—
Back to the woods, old scout come on—let's go."

Oats Differ Like apples—be careful

Some oats are large and luscious. But a bushel of choice oats yields only ten pounds of such grains.

Those grains alone are used in Mother's Oats. That's the reason for the delightful flavor.

Some oats are small and stunted. They yield insipid flakes. Those oats are all discarded in this brand.

No food you serve to children can compare with oats. There are 16 needed elements in oats—body-builders, vim-producers, minerals, etc. Every pound yields 1810 calories of nutriment.

Oat flakes, above all foods, should be served at their best. You want children to love this dish.

Then be careful. Ask for Mother's Oats, and make sure you get them.

New Beauty Came

A story that millions know

Millions of people have gained new beauty through a new teeth cleaning method. You see them everywhere. Their teeth now glisten, and they show them when they smile.
If you don't know that method, make this test.

Combat the film

It is film that makes teeth dingy—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food grains, etc., discolor it, then it forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. Under old methods, very few escaped them. Beautiful teeth were less often seen than today.

Old ways failed

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats film. So much film remained to night and day threaten serious damage.

The interest of a large circle of friends centered in the pretty church wedding of Monday afternoon at Olivet Presbyterian church, which united in marriage, Miss Harriet L. Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kelly of this city, and Parker Lester Vickery, son of Mr. E. B. Cutting, Springfield, Mass.

The ceremony was performed at 2 o'clock in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the couple. The Rev. Otis Harter, pastor of the church, officiated.

The altar of the church was decorated with ferns, palms and great clusters of yellow chrysanthemums, which were enhanced by the illumination of tall cathedral candles.

Proceeding the ceremony, Mrs. I. L. Shaffer played a group of organ numbers while Mrs. James Risser, Middletown, sister of the bride, sang the Song Cycle, "Epitome of Love."

With the opening strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus the bride party entered the church and took their places at the altar.

Miss Maude Hazelwood, Columbus, attended the bride while Bert Leroy Kelley, brother of the bride, officiated as groomsman.

The bride was gown in a handsome creation of Royal blue panne velvet with cape and hat to match. She wore a corsage of Ophelia roses.

The bridesmaid was attired in a grey canton crepe frock. She wore a modish grey hat to match and carried a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Risser wore a black canton crepe dress and grey hat. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

An informal reception in the church parlor immediately followed the ceremony after which Mr. Vickery and his bride left on a wedding trip thru the east. After January 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Vickery will be at home in Fayetteville, N. C., where the bridegroom is inspector of Ordnance Property for the United States Government.

The bride is a singer of note and has been very prominent in musical circles in this city. She received her musical education at the school of Music of Ohio University. At the close of the World War and until spring of this year, Mrs. Vickery was engaged in welfare work in Coblenz, Germany. It was at this time that she met Mr. Vickery, who was located with the Army of Occupation.

Out of town guests at the ceremony included Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Smith, Oxford; Mrs. Tarlo Smith, Cincinnati; Miss Anna Habekost, West Alexandria; Mr. and Mrs. James Risser, Middletown and Miss Maude Hazelwood, Columbus.

For the pleasure of Mrs. Harry E. Goldsberry, who with Mr. Goldsberry and son Victor William, leave Tuesday for their future home in Lorain, Mrs. William Renz, Brice, entertained a small circle of friends informally at bridge, Monday afternoon.

Congressman and Mrs. John L. Cable and children, Alice Mary and Davis, Lakewood, will leave Thursday for Washington, D. C., where they will continue their residence during the next two years at least.

Susie Smart's Advice

Dear Miss Smart: I am a girl 22 years old and I am keeping my sister, who is 18 years old, with me. I am working here and taking care of her. Unfortunately it seems that my sister is just at that wild age and I can't do anything with her. I have talked and pleaded with her but all to no avail. Do you think that I should write to my mother and see if that will do any good?

I sympathize with you in that "young sisters" are very hard and difficult "propositions" to manage because they positively refuse to be "housed". The best plan for you is either to insist that your sister go out only when you permit her and conduct herself in a more womanly manner or tell her that she must go back with your mother. If she knows that you really mean what you say she will be more careful. Make your penalty no idle threat. If you do not notice an improvement in her, write your mother to send for her immediately. Your sister is just at the age where she needs her mother's attention and care.

Dear Miss Smart: I am just 25 years old and my hair is turning grey. This worries me greatly as it is almost entirely grey. Can you tell me what causes this and what I can do?

I have no way of knowing what may be the cause of this premature greyness. It is said that great mental anguish sometimes has this effect. If you have been in the habit of worrying, try to overcome it. And try to overcome the conditions that have caused you to worry. If you cannot change them, recognize the fact that worrying cannot help you, but on the contrary may do you far more serious harm than causing your hair to lose its color. It would be advisable for you to consult a physician who is a skin specialist. Perhaps there is some faulty health condition which has caused your hair to turn grey.

ULSTER APPEALS TO ENGLAND FOR SUPPORT

BELFAST — The Ulster Association for "peace with honor," composed for the most part of prominent Belfast tradesmen, has issued an appeal to the voters of England in which it is declared that "Ulster intends to remain part and parcel of the British empire."

The appeal points out that Ulster, having been given a parliament of her own, wants to be left alone to carry on the work entrusted to her by the imperial parliament without any difficulty being placed in the way.

"Ulster stands today as she has always done, for the empire and the flag," the appeal said. "Her loyal citizens appeal to the electors of England, Scotland and Wales to see that the unity of the empire for which they stand is not forgotten when the time comes for them to cast their votes."

Tragedy Hangs Over Heads Of The Barretts
By ZOE BECKLEY

Silence like the hush in electrical-charged atmosphere before the crash of storm was over the Barrett breakfast table.

It oppressed even the maid as she came and went with dishes. She wondered, much as simple folk wonder at quarreling gods, why people so comfortably situated as Mr. and Mrs. Barrett should be unhappy.

All the things Nora pictured as bringing joy were there. A beautiful home; two smart cars; the head of the house handsome, well-to-do; the mistress cultured, "a good dresser" and a favorite apparently with everyone—except her husband; a "fine young fellow" of a son about to enter college; a daughter with all the good points of both parents and herself a popular member of the senior class in high school.

What could the Barretts, possibly have more? Yet actual tragedy was in the air. Nora sighed as she went out of the room with the eggshells and stood in the partry thinking, with the swing-door just missing her heels.

John Barrett, a trim, spare man with the ruddy tan of the golfer, regarded his pancakes stonily as he neglected them. His lean face was set. His lips were pale with compression.

Anita Barrett, at the other side of the round table, sat with downcast eyes, her features composed but her eyes betraying suffering nerves.

John Junior, a clean-limbed athlete of 18, gulped his breakfast angrily, as though he were afraid he would break out before he could finish.

Alice, her pretty, vivid face pathetic with conflicting loyalties, confronted with more than she could bear, was the only one whose lips frankly quivered with pain, in whose eyes tears stood.

She was the first to break under the strain of silence. Suddenly putting down her cup, she rose, ran to her mother and with both arms tightly round her neck, pressed her face into her mother's brow and sobbed.

Anita absently touched the girl's cheek, patted it, but said nothing. It was more than Alice could endure. Hiding her face in the crook of her arm, she pulled loose and ran blindly from the room.

Her brother rose, his boyish features working with emotion, undecided whether to speak out—or push away. He swallowed hard, wet his lips, tried to speak, but choked on it. He, too, went to his mother, laid his cheek clumsily to hers and with a muttered "So long, dad," went quickly out.

His mother stood up as if to follow him without so much as a glance at her husband. His voice, husky with fury, stopped her.

"Better stay," he clipped out. "There are a few details to arrange. Because—I'm leaving—for good!"

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"
Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

35c and 65c in jars and tubes. Better than mustard plaster.—Adv.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, it does the work without the blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

Tragedy Hangs Over Heads Of The Barretts
By ZOE BECKLEY

Silence like the hush in electrical-charged atmosphere before the crash of storm was over the Barrett breakfast table.

It oppressed even the maid as she came and went with dishes. She wondered, much as simple folk wonder at quarreling gods, why people so comfortably situated as Mr. and Mrs. Barrett should be unhappy.

All the things Nora pictured as bringing joy were there. A beautiful home; two smart cars; the head of the house handsome, well-to-do; the mistress cultured, "a good dresser" and a favorite apparently with everyone—except her husband; a "fine young fellow" of a son about to enter college; a daughter with all the good points of both parents and herself a popular member of the senior class in high school.

What could the Barretts, possibly have more? Yet actual tragedy was in the air. Nora sighed as she went out of the room with the eggshells and stood in the partry thinking, with the swing-door just missing her heels.

John Barrett, a trim, spare man with the ruddy tan of the golfer, regarded his pancakes stonily as he neglected them. His lean face was set. His lips were pale with compression.

Anita Barrett, at the other side of the round table, sat with downcast eyes, her features composed but her eyes betraying suffering nerves.

John Junior, a clean-limbed athlete of 18, gulped his breakfast angrily, as though he were afraid he would break out before he could finish.

Alice, her pretty, vivid face pathetic with conflicting loyalties, confronted with more than she could bear, was the only one whose lips frankly quivered with pain, in whose eyes tears stood.

She was the first to break under the strain of silence. Suddenly putting down her cup, she rose, ran to her mother and with both arms tightly round her neck, pressed her face into her mother's brow and sobbed.

Anita absently touched the girl's cheek, patted it, but said nothing. It was more than Alice could endure. Hiding her face in the crook of her arm, she pulled loose and ran blindly from the room.

Her brother rose, his boyish features working with emotion, undecided whether to speak out—or push away. He swallowed hard, wet his lips, tried to speak, but choked on it. He, too, went to his mother, laid his cheek clumsily to hers and with a muttered "So long, dad," went quickly out.

His mother stood up as if to follow him without so much as a glance at her husband. His voice, husky with fury, stopped her.

"Better stay," he clipped out. "There are a few details to arrange. Because—I'm leaving—for good!"

LIMA TO HAVE TEAM IN NORTHWESTERN OHIO LEAGUE

The much talked-about Northwestern Ohio baseball league seems to be nearer a reality this fall than ever before.

For the past several seasons efforts have been made to organize a Northwestern Ohio league with Lima as the hub, but the project has never been carried out.

In 1922 possibilities for such a league looked extremely bright and the only difficulty which could not be done away with was obtaining suitable franchises of ball parks in the various towns.

Interest in baseball in Northwestern Ohio was greatly increased in 1922 and 30-game schedules were played on improved grounds in Lima, Wapakoneta, Findlay, Delphos, St. Marys, Troy, Celina, Van Wert, Sidney and Ottawa.

During the past season, the 19 towns have been working to obtain suitable franchises on their ball parks, and reports from every place declare that parks can be obtained for two or three games a week.

Lima fans have always expressed themselves in favor of an organized league whether the schedule called for a game every day or two or three a week.

With this in mind, Bernard Halloran, manager of the Lima Independents, has issued an invitation to managers and enthusiasts in each of the other nine cities to meet in Lima sometime in December. Already Delphos Ottawa Wapakoneta,

Sidney and Van Wert have expressed themselves in favor of the movement and have accepted the invitation.

The proposed league will, according to tentative arrangements play at least two games a week. This will bring the organization under the protective wing of organized baseball and will go a long way in keeping the standard of the games on a high plane.

From Delphos and Ottawa, word has been received that the fans are anxious to back a league and that they will co-operate with "Berney" Halloran to the fullest extent. However, both towns have expressed the opinion that they will endeavor to incorporate in the charter a clause with places a limit on the salaries to be paid.

They have also promulgated the idea that each team in the league should be assigned a definite territory from which to draw its players. It might possibly be a good idea to put a salary limit in the charter, but the quality of baseball played during the season would surely suffer if each team were compelled to draw its players from a certain assigned territory.

Lima, which supported the independents in grand style during the past summer would welcome organized baseball and after the enthusiasm shown in 1922, a definite schedule and the fact that the teams were playing for a flag and title—Champions and Northwestern Ohio—would greatly increase attendance and interest.

Definite arrangements for the coming season will be made at the meeting, which will be held some time next month. In the meantime, preliminary discussions are being carried on by correspondence and it is likely that an agreement will be made at the first meeting.

A big factor in the success of the league is the fact that the managers of the teams are all true sportsmen and are trying hard to promote the national game. The profits of the league will be small and the managers will receive their remuneration mostly in the fact that they have promoted the sport.

MATCH IS INTEREST IN COMING CONTEST WISCONSIN WILL FIGHT TO VICTORY OVER PAULDING WILL RAISE DELPHOS AVERAGE

NEW YORK—Willie Hoppe, former 182 lb. bantam weight champion is the oldest, and Roger Conti, 21-year-old French title holder, is the youngest of the six competitors who will play in the international professional championship tournament starting tonight at the Hotel Pennsylvania and continuing for eight days. Jake Schaefer, the defending champion, will start the title match tonight with Eric Hagerlach of Germany, the "dark horse" of the tournament. Conti and Hoppe will start play tomorrow, the former meeting Wilkey Corbett, another American star, in the afternoon, while Hoppe opposes Edouard Foremans of Belgium in an evening match.

Hoppe, who is 35 years old, began winning championships in 1904 and until last year at Chicago when he was beaten by Schaefer for the 182 lb. title, had held both the 181 and 182 lb. style championships since 1919.

Schaefer, who developed his game under the tutelage of his famous father, is 28 years old, Hagerlach, who is 26, and ambidextrous in his manipulation of the cue has impressed critics with his play since coming here this year.

BOXING DOPE

By BILLY EVANS

Mickey Walker, the new welter-weight champion, is going to find plenty of opposition. The welter class has some mighty good men in it, and if Mickey is able to polish off all his challenges, he must be recognized as a real champion.

Walker makes no pretense of being clever, but he is strong, willing and aggressive. Walker can hit and is always trying. There are some who will ridicule the statement that Mickey packs a wallop since he is to knock out the veteran Britton.

That is rather unfair to Walker, since in Britton he met just about the cleverest man in the ring. Only four months ago the brilliant Benny Leonard was unable to fathom Britton's air-tight defense with any degree of success.

In the twelfth round of the Walker fight, the referee, seeing that Britton was in none too good shape, suggested that he admit defeat. Jack merely smiled, however, and remarked that he would go the limit unless he got in the way of one of Walker's wild swings.

BRITTON HARD TO HIT
When Britton saw that he was in trouble, he simply protected himself in every way and made it almost impossible for Walker to reach the vital spot. Mickey uncorked enough punches to knock out a half dozen fighters, but Britton was always either picking them out of the air, or else blocking them in such a way that they never got home.

Dave Shinde has already challenged Walker, and it is a certainty that Shinde will make things most interesting for the new title holder.

There is Jack Malone, who recently received a decision over Walker at Boston. Jack says that he is ready to repeat whenever given the chance.

To my way of thinking a writer who has not received the mention he deserves in connection with the welterweight class is Johnny Karr of Cleveland. This fellow Karr is a great fighter. Only recently he shaded Malone. It wouldn't surprise me a bit if Walker finds Karr far more troublesome than any other contender for the title.

Barnstormers Win

TOKIO—The American all-star baseball team, touring Japan, defeated the Waseda University team 13 to 0. The Americans got 18 hits and made one error. The Japanese got two hits and made four errors. A crowd estimated at 6,000 saw the game.

STADIUMS CHANGE FOOTBALL STYLE

(By BILLY EVANS)
In every sport plenty of action, speed, is the fundamental factor. If the game is to continue to meet with popular favor.

Since the introduction of the forward pass, which features the open-style game, football has rapidly advanced in public favor because the game has been speeded up.

Altho the annual Central-South pickin classic is over two weeks away, interest in the coming contest is growing apace and more—if such a thing is possible—interest is being shown in the game this year than ever before.

South, which has been favored by fans all season as being the stronger team, was not forced to exert themselves against Troy and the fact that Troy was beaten before they took the field lowered the efforts of Coach Burdette's protégés. As a result, the Blue and Gold gridirers slipped up on their interference and did not pile up as large a score as was expected.

Central also had an easy game and had the team been forced would have shown a better brand of football at Piqua. Both Lima aggregations looked ragged, and this fact further complicated the task of doping out which team will emerge victorious on Thanksgiving Day.

South will not be seen again in local fields until the final game of the year, playing Canton McKinley High in Canton next Saturday and visiting the Saturday before Thanksgiving.

Central plays Springfield on College field next Saturday and travels to St. Marys the following week. The games next Saturday are expected to tax the strength of both teams and should bring out the strong points of each team.

Y. M. C. A. Urges Attendance At Gymnasium Classes

Facts of interest to every athlete in Lima and to every man, who desires to keep himself in perfect physical trim are contained in a bulletin issued the past week by the physical education department of the Y. M. C. A.

The bulletin, which is intended to be read by men and boys who have never attended gymnasium, follows:

"An explanation of the Y. M. C. A. Physical work must begin with an explanation of class work, because the best results are obtained from the class work and therefore the greatest emphasis is placed upon the class work. The class is held because it is social. The attention of the individual is not self-centered. What would be work when done alone becomes play when carried on in a group. The rivalry of the group is interest in the work and the class develops enthusiasm. The team spirit—the ability to mix—to lead and a few of the things that come out of class work.

"The class is informal in its organization. It is simply a congenial group meeting at convenient hours for active play together. Regularity of attendance brings, of course, the best results.

BOYS' CLASSES
"Boys from 10 to 17 years of age are given a class in games, progress and recreation. Special attention is given to corrective exercises and body building. The exercises are of a gymnastic, athletic character. The boys learn to do things while learning the desirable physical results. There are drills, apparatus exercises, games, athletics and swimming.

SWIMMING
"Swimming as a recreation and sport is unsurpassed. Swimming makes firm and supple muscles, good body proportion and is a real health builder.

"The oft repeated assertion that water weakens is absurd. For the vitality of swimmers it is as high as that of many other classes of athletes. The swimming pool is very popular.

VOLLEY BALL
"Volley ball which is played largely by the business men is also indulged in by young men. Its adaptability to young and old, strong and weak, physically inclined or not is a great factor in its popularity. Students of the game are willing to say that volley ball is the most adaptable and by far the greatest game yet discovered. Since its introduction in recent beginning it has spread in a popular way around the world. Especially is it popular in the Orient.

HAND BALL
"Hand ball is becoming more and more popular. Few other indoor games compare in keener interest and more exacting attention than hand ball. The average man can learn to play the game quickly and with great satisfaction. It possesses mental and physical relaxation and is one of the best general health building games. The game is especially adapted to the men whose hours for exercise are irregular.

The hand ball courts at the 'Y' are very popular and in fact are not adequate for the number who at present wish to play the game."

Johnson Hires 2 New Umpires To Join American League

CHICAGO, Ill.—The signing of two new umpires by President Johnson of the American League is an indication that he intends to shake up the personnel of his staff.

The two new men signed are "Red" Ormsby and "Ducky" Holmes. Ormsby was umpired in the Western League last year and gave excellent satisfaction in that circuit. Ormsby is a product of the Chicago sandlots. He is a big, husky fellow, who gets his nickname because of the color of his locks. While he is only had a few years experience in the minors he is regarded as one of the best umpiring prospects in the country.

Holmes, of course, is not the original "Ducky," as all players by the name of Holmes are known as "Ducky." Holmes was a good minor-league player. He was a catcher. When his playing days were ended because of an injury he took to umpiring.

Holmes has worked in a number of minor leagues, among them being the American Association. A year ago he was shortstop for the National League, however, refused to pay the purchase price, asked and he lost his big chance.

President Heydler of the National League says there will be at least two new men on his staff. A number of umpires were tried on by him near the close of the season. Good umpires appear to be much harder to land than star ball players.

TIGERS TO FIGHT FOR POSITION

Ty Cobb says there is only one debatable position on his ball club, third base. Bobby Jones and Fred Haney will fight it out for that position. If Jones is able to keep physically fit, he will have the call. A bad stomach raised havoc with his game last year.

Haney, whether he wins the third base berth or not, is certain to be retained. He is a valuable man to have around for utility purposes. He can play any position in the infield and in a pinch, do a pretty fair job in the outfield.

Blue will be at first, Pratt at second and Rigney at short. In the outfield will be Cobb, Hollman and Veach. Bassler, Woodall and Manion will look after the catching.

The pitching of course is a question. Cobb expects great things from "Rip" Collins, secured from Boston. Pillette should have another good season and Johnson should arrive with a bang in 1923. The rest of the staff is a bit uncertain.

The Big 11 A. C. basketball team wishes to book games with any team in this vicinity. For further particulars address Franklin Doss, 525 N. Collett-st., Lima, Ohio.

TACKLE "JAB" MURRY, COACH RICHARDS.

MADISON, Wis.—Athletic relations between the universities of Wisconsin and Illinois are strained to the breaking point as the result of the protest by Illinois authorities because of the playing of Donald "Jab" Murry, right tackle on the Badger varsity eleven, on the Taylorville American Legion team.

The conference eligibility committee ruled Murry out of the Minnesota game last Saturday.

Coach John Richards, Wisconsin, retaliated on the same day by making a public statement that five men now on the Illinois squad, Allison, Auger, tackle; Green, Yates, Robinson and Durant, also had played on the Taylorville team.

Coach Richards hopes to have Murry reinstated to time to play against Illinois in the Wisconsin Homecoming game here next Saturday, November 11.

Major John Griffith, "Big Ten" athletic commissioner, has refused to take a hand in the embroglio, declaring that he has no jurisdiction over the case, as the events involved occurred before last June 1, when he took his job of Landis of the Western Conference.

Murry declares he is innocent of professionalism.

Taylorville is his home town, and he admits having played with the Taylorville team, but he was at that time not enrolled in any university and he did not receive money for playing, according to his story.

NEW YORK — After another turbulent week, in which form went astray, Princeton and Cornell still astride the football heap in the east. The Tigers seem to be the champions for a week at least. They have won seven games and lost none, and their victories were more glorious than those of Cornell, who has won six games over less illustrious opponents.

West Virginia figured generally as an eastern team, who won six games without being defeated. In the undefeated class also are Washington and Jefferson and the fine Army eleven, but W. & J. has one game which Carnegie Tech and the Army has engaged in two no-decision contests with Yale and Notre Dame.

Princeton has one more game between a first class college claim on the eastern title and the culmination of one of the best seasons the Tigers have had in years. That one game is a "wow," however, as the great Nassau team meets Yale next Saturday, when the game has developed to a point where they are meat for no one.

"Boots" Brunner, the great Penn State halfback, is back again as the leader in individual scoring. Twelve touchdowns and 11 points after the touchdown, he has a total of 83.

Charley Robertson, quarterback of Carnegie, has also scored 12 touchdowns with only one point after touchdown and he is second with 12. Wilson, Penn State halfback, has scored 67 points and his team-mate, Mike Palm, has 59 to his credit.

Hanson, Cornell tackle, leads in points after touchdowns with 25 and McBride, of Syracuse, is tied with Roderick, of Columbia, for the lead in field goals with three each.

California, which overwhelmed the much sought Transcontinental

Motorcycle Record has received two severe jolts within the last 60 days. In September the old record, held by Alan Bedell, was broken by no other than the well known E. G. "Cannonball" Baker of Indianapolis, by 17 hours and 24 minutes in a truly wonderful display of human endurance and motorcycle mechanical perfection.

This record was, however, short lived, for Wells Bennett of Los Angeles arrived in New York at 6:14 p. m., October 31st, cutting Baker's record 7 hours and 39 minutes, a super-human performance. His total time elapsed, leaving Los Angeles at 12:01 a. m., October 25th, till he arrived at Torrville, S. T., New York, at 6:14 p. m., October 31st, was 6 days 15 hours and 13 minutes, covering 3,400 miles.

The Bedell record was 7 days 16 hours and 16 minutes, and had stood for more than 5 years. From the time Bennett left Los Angeles until he reached Torrville he had 12 1/2 hours sleep. He was lost in the Texas Pan Handle and pilots guided him to Dodge City, Kansas, from which point he knew the road fairly well and found the going very good to the Missouri line, where his experience was the same as that of any transcontinental tourist, but crossed the state in 12 hours time. He reached Torrville in good shape in spite of the strenuous trip and lack of sleep, which speaks volumes for the rider and machine. It is freely predicted by men of experience in the trade that Bennett's record will stand for some time.

Washington 57 to 1, leads the country in team scoring, with 3 points. Cornell, with 282 points, the leader in scoring eleven of the east. Center leads in the score with 254 and Iowa leads in the western conference with 295.

Michigan still remains as the only major team in the country that has not been scored on; the No. 1 team is next with only ten points allowed the opposition.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Centre versus Washington Lee. That game is already attracting much attention in the south. The meeting of these two teams will be staged at Louisville, Ky., Nov. 11.

"Centre," by its great show against Harvard, is conceded to have another wonder team, being scored on three times in first period, largely because breaks favored the Crimson. Caneback and outplayed Harvard the rest of the game.

Washington and Lee show strength in the game with Virginia by holding that team 12 to 2 tie. West Virginia previously defeated Pittsburg, the first time such a feat has been accomplished in 20 years.

West Virginia team. While both clubs are rated as it looks as if Centre should have slight edge.

FOUND! DIRECTOR WHO THINKS PUBLIC THINKS!

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)
 RUDY MAUDE is an unusual sort of movie director; he believes the fellow who digs the girl who stands behind the counter and the man who works at a bench possess a sense of beauty.

As an earnest of his belief he has started a series of films devoted to the masses will flock to the theater to see them.

"Beauty does not mean the elimination of conflict," Maude says. "Conflict is essential to drama, but that conflict need not be common set or physical conflict. Conflict of two wills, of two natures, can be shown as dramatically as physical conflict."

"Too many pictures today play down to what a not very intelligent producer may consider the intelligence of the masses. They do not hit the mark because they aim too low. The average person wants entertainment that inspires thought. He, or she, does not go to the theater just to kill time."

Maude's little speech might sound like the empty words of one of these chatterers who are always prating about what ought to be done to improve the movies but never do anything.

However, Maude is the man who wrote the stories for "The Beggar Maid," "The Bashful Suitor" and "The Young Painter," two-reel dramas based on famous paintings. He wrote and directed "The Song of the Lark." The predominating element of those films was beauty—beauty of story and pictorial composition.

"The Angelus," the famous Millet painting, will be the subject of Maude's next film. Other paintings to serve as the basis for subsequent films are "The Doctor," by Luke Fildes; "The Mother," by Sir John Lavery.

Evidently Maude does believe the masses think that the average adult intelligence is an adult intelligence.

In its very unusualness of construction and neatness of detail, "Crossroads of New York" will impress itself upon your mind as a picture to see and remember. It's the spirit of the thing, the good-natured co-operation of everyone in the cast to make it as funny and thrilling as possible, that makes it one of the most absorbing stories of the season.

In the Cummings drama, excellent sets and beautiful mountain scenery combine to make a pleasant little drama that adds novelty and variety to the Sigma program.

Again today and until Friday.

In "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" You Weep Copiously

OF COURSE you have heard that oft-repeated and well-worn saying about the lady (they never mention the men) who saw a sad picture and came out of the theater enthusiastically saying, "Oh, it was just wonderful! I cried and cried!"

Well, here's "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" that makes the tears flow copiously, unless you're hard-hearted like I am, for at the opening of the production at the Lyric on Sunday, handkerchiefs were much in evidence.

The great thing about this picture, taken from the old time novel and play, is that after you have seen it, you are prepared for the most heart-rending drama that could ever happen. You have seen the champion story of the screen.

There you sit, watching the poor little girl with the weak lungs, wearing a tattered shawl and followed by her faithful little dog, permitted by her hard-working and shrunken mother to wade thru the sleet and snow to go nightly to Slade's, which is a saloon.

Here's a One-Hoss Film at the Faurot

THIS is a "one hoss" story. It's all about Tony, the most wonderful, smartest, sleekest and swiftest piece of horseflesh you ever saw. The story is written about him and he is hero and villain—with Mr. Tom Mix of course, helping a little on the side. Isn't it wonderful the way they can train a horse to do things?

Tony is Mr. Mix's horse and the one that has appeared with him in pictures ever since he started making them—in fact, he's one of the reasons why Mr. Mix is so popular today. He really deserves a star picture and I'm glad to give him this opportunity.

Scenery, sets, cast, photography, Mr. Mix, and so on, are about the same as they always are in the Mix pictures, which you know by this time are westerns with plenty of punch and

Hal Kiter Enters on Last Week Here

PERSONS of the New Orpheum who for the past five weeks have enjoyed the many programs given by the Billy Ilen Co., featuring Hal Kiter as the comedian, learn with regret that this week is the closing engagement in the city of this popular company.

For the attraction the first of this week, the company is offering "The Time, The Place, The Girl," a breezy, fast-moving musical comedy which combines clever comedy, tuneful music and special features.

Elsie Ryan in "The Intimate Strangers"

MISS ELSA RYAN, one of the most gifted and popular actresses in the American theater, has returned from a stage tour to her first love, the legitimate stage, and will be presented by Augustus Pitou in the new whimsical comedy "The Intimate Strangers" by Booth Tarkington, at the Faurot Opera House tonight.

In her new starring vehicle, Miss Ryan has a part that displays to the full those remarkable and lovable qualities that endeared her to American audiences in "Peg o' My Heart," "Tea for Three," "Peg for Short," etc. The passing years have only added to and heightened her charm, matured her and made more compelling the rare appeal of her dainty and magnetic personality. In her present brilliant character as "Irene" of the part of Isabel Stuart, the New England lady of uncertain age, she has added to her galaxy of roles one that will stand out cameo-like, for that will stand out cameo-like, for its tenderness, its gentle whimsical humor and its wifely pathos. From the first ripple of her happy laughter to the final "Good night, dear," at the close, the charm and grace of Elsie Ryan dominates the action of the play that is delightfully pleasing and refreshingly wholesome.

come a member of the Harvard rowing crew. (A broad jump there, but that's how the story goes.)

By this time you know that Rudy wasn't a dyed-in-the-wool Indian fortune-teller. He was born in India but came to America and was adopted by a nice old gentleman who sent him to Harvard. There he milled around a bit and fell in love with Wanda Hawley, whose father doesn't believe in Indian mysticism, not at all.

Not that it is at all probable. It isn't. But the role invests Mr. Valentino with many an opportunity to appear fantastic, decked out in beads and things, and fully exploits his weird personality.

So much for "The Young Rajah." It certainly is attracting wide attention, whether the thing is possible or not.

At the Quilna three more days, including today.

LIMA TO HAVE TEAM IN NORTHWESTERN OHIO LEAGUE

The much talked-about Northwestern Ohio baseball league seems to be nearer a reality this fall than ever before.

For the past several seasons efforts have been made to organize a Northwestern Ohio league with Lima as the hub, but the project has never been carried out.

In 1932 possibilities for such a league looked extremely bright and the only difficulty which could not be done away with was obtaining suitable franchises of ball parks in the various towns.

Interest in baseball in Northwestern Ohio was greatly increased in 1922 and 30-game schedules were played on improved grounds in Lima, Wapakoneta, Findlay, Delphos, St. Marys, Troy, Celina, Van Wert, Sidney and Ottawa.

During the past season, the 10 towns have been working to obtain suitable franchises on their ball parks, and reports from every place declare that parks can be obtained for two or three games a week.

Lima fans have always expressed themselves in favor of an organized league whether the schedule called for a game every day or two or three a week.

With this in mind, Bernard Halloran, manager of the Lima Independents, has issued an invitation to managers and enthusiasts in each of the other nine cities to meet in Lima sometime in December. Already Delphos, Ottawa, Wapakoneta,

Sidney and Van Wert have expressed themselves in favor of the movement and have accepted the invitation.

The proposed league will, according to tentative arrangements, play at least two games a week. This will bring the organization under the protective wing of organized baseball and will go a long way in keeping the standard of the games on a high plane.

From Delphos and Ottawa, word has been received that the fans are anxious to back a league and that they will co-operate with "Bernie" Halloran to the fullest extent. However, both towns have expressed the opinion that they will endeavor to incorporate in the charter a clause with places a limit on the salaries to be paid.

They have also promulgated the idea that each team in the league should be assigned a definite territory from which to draw its players.

It might possibly be a good idea to put a salary limit in the charter, but the quality of baseball played during the season would surely suffer if each team were compelled to draw its players from a certain assigned territory.

Lima, which supported the Independents in grand style during the past summer, would welcome organized baseball and after the enthusiastic season shown in 1922, a definite schedule and the fact that the teams were playing for a flag and title—Champions and Northwestern Ohio—would greatly increase attendance and interest.

Definite arrangements for the coming season will be made at the meeting, which will be held some time next month. In the meantime, preliminary discussion is being held by the managers and it is likely that an agreement will be made at the first meeting.

A big factor in the success of the league is the fact that the managers of the teams are all true sportsmen and are trying hard to promote the national game. The profits of the league will be small and the managers will receive their remuneration mostly in the fact that they have promoted the sport.

MATCH IS INTEREST IN COMING CONTEST WISCONSIN WILL FIGHT TO VICTORY OVER PAULDING WILL STARTED STEADILY GROWING RETAIN MURRY RAISE DELPHOS AVERAGE

NEW YORK—Willie Hoppe, former 182 ball line billiard champion is the oldest, and Roger Cont, 21-year-old French title holder, is the youngest of the six competitors who will play in the International professional championship tournament starting tonight at the Hotel Pennsylvania and continuing for eight days. Jake Schaefer, the defending champion, will start the title match tonight with Eric Haggenmacher of Germany, the "tank horse" of the tournament. Cont and Hoppe will start play tomorrow, the former meeting Walker Cochran, another American star, in the afternoon, while Hoppe opposes Edouard Horemans of Belgium in an evening match.

Hoppe, who is 35 years old, began winning championships in 1904 and until last year at Chicago when he was beaten by Schaefer for the 152 title, had held both the 181 and 152 style championships since 1910.

Schaefer, who developed his game under the tutelage of his famous father, is 28 years old. Haggenmacher, who is 24, and amiable, took in his manipulation of the cue has impressed critics with his play since coming here this year.

Altho the annual Central-South football classic is over two weeks away, interest in the coming contest is growing apace and more—if such a thing is possible—interest is being shown in the game this year than ever before.

South, which has been favored by fans all season as being the stronger eleven, was not forced to exit themselves against Troy and the fact that Troy was a better force they took the field lowered the efforts of Coach Burdett's players. As a result, the Blue and Gold griders slipped up on their interference and did not pile up as large a score as was expected.

Central also had an easy game and had the team been forced would have shown a better brand of football at Piqua. Both Lima aggregations looked ragged and this fact further complicated the task of doing out which team will emerge victorious on Thanksgiving Day.

South will not be seen again in local fields until the final game of the year, playing Canton McKinley High in Canton next Saturday and leaving the Saturday before Thanksgiving.

Central plays Springfield on College field next Saturday and travels to St. Marys the following week. The games next Saturday are expected to tax the strength of both teams and should bring out the strong points of each team.

Tackle "Jab" Murry, coach Richards.

MADISON, Wis. — Athletic relations between the universities of Wisconsin and Illinois are strained to the breaking point as the result of the protest by Illinois authorities because of the playing of Donald "Jab" Murry, right tackle on the Badger varsity eleven, on the Taylorville American Legion team.

The conference eligibility committee ruled Murry out of the Minnesota game last Saturday.

Coach John Richards, Wisconsin, retorted on the same day by making a public statement that five men now on the Illinois squad, Albin, Auger, Tucker, Green and Robin, who declare themselves innocent of any charges of professionalism.

Coach Richards hopes to have Murry reinstated in time to play against Illinois in the Wisconsin Homecoming game here next Saturday, November 11.

Major John Griffith, "Big Ten" athletic commissioner, has refused to take a hand in the embroglio, declaring that he has no jurisdiction over the case, as the events involved occurred before last June 1, when he took his job of "lands of the Western Conference."

If Delphos high school wins from Paulding this week it will mean four straight victories against an equal number of defeats. When the Delphosians knocked off Continental, Wapakoneta and Van Wert in succession, their stock, which had sunk to a low level by reason of four straight defeats, soared skyward.

Delphos fans are backing Coach Gorrell's men to earn a 500 percentage by trimming Convoys, which was one of the quartette of eleven that figured in the early Delphos losses.

The gridgers know fully 100 per cent more than when they met Convoys, critics believe.

Followers of the team are losing little time in regretting lack of a heavier line and put their faith on backfield to counterbalance that disadvantage. Despite his small size Bob McDonald at right half back is a line plunger who hits with terrific force. Beardsley is a persistent ground gainer. Spellman, the eleventh straight back, is coming to the front. Shaffer at quarter always plays a steady game and is in top form now in forward passing.

By defeating Paulding, Delphos will have a chance to finish the season with six wins and four defeats, as other games—with Paulding and Wapakoneta—are on the schedule.

Y. M. C. A. Urges Attendance At Gymnasium Classes

Facts of interest to every athlete in Lima and to every man, who desires to keep himself in perfect physical trim are contained in a bulletin issued the past week by the physical education department of the Y. M. C. A.

The bulletin, which is intended to be read by men and boys who have never attended gymnasium, follows:

"An explanation of the Y. M. C. A. Physical work must begin with an explanation of class work, because the best results are obtained from the class work and therefore the greatest emphasis is placed upon the classes. The class is best because it is social. The attention of the individual is not self-centered. What would be work when done alone becomes play when carried out in a group. The rivalry of the group leads interest to the work and develops enthusiasm. The team spirit—the ability to mix—to lead are a few of the things that come out of class work.

The class is informal in its organization. It is simply a group of men meeting at convenient hours for active play together. Regularity of attendance brings, of course, the best results.

BOYS' CLASSES

Boys from 10 to 17 years of age take the class. It is graded according to age and recreational. Special attention is given to corrective exercises and body building. The exercises are of a gymnastic, athletic character. The boys learn to do things while securing the desirable physical results. There are drills, apparatus exercises, games, athletics and swimming.

SWIMMING

Swimming as a recreation and sport is unsurpassed. Swimming makes firm and supple muscles, good body proportion and is a real health builder.

The oft repeated assertion that water weakens is absurd. For the value of swimming it is as high as that of many other classes of athletics. The swimming pool is very popular.

VOLLEY BALL

Volley ball which is played largely by the business men is also included in by young men. Its adaptability to young and old, strong and weak, athletically inclined or not is a great factor in its popularity. Students of the game are willing to say that volleyball is the most adaptable and by far the greatest of the game of the gymnasium. Its comparative recent beginning it has spread in a popular way around the world. Especially is it popular in the Orient.

HAND BALL

Hand ball is becoming more and more popular. It is one of the best general health games. The game is especially adapted to the men whose hours for exercise are irregular. The hand ball courts at the "Y" are very popular and in fact are not adequate for the number who at present wish to play the game."

Princeton And Cornell Leading In Eastern Grid Race

NEW YORK — After another turbulent week, in which Princeton and Cornell sat astride the football heap in the east, the Tigers seem to be the champions for a week at least. They have won seven games and lost none and their victories were more glorious than those of Cornell, who has won six games over less illustrious opponents.

West Virginia figured generally as an eastern team, has also won six games without being defeated. In the undefeated class also are Washington and Jefferson and the fine Army eleven, but W. & J. has one game which Cornell, Yale and the Army has engaged in two no-decision contests with Yale and Notre Dame.

Washington 57 to 1, leads the country in team scoring, with 321 points. Cornell, with 282 points is the leader in scoring eleven in the east. Center leads in the south with 254 and Iowa leads in the western conference with 235.

Michigan still remains as the only major team in the country that has not been scored on, the Notre Dame is next with only ten points allowed the opposition.

BOXING DOPE

Mickey Walker, the new welterweight champion, is going to find plenty of opposition. The welter class has some mighty good men in it, and if Mickey is able to polish off all his challenges, he must be recognized as a real champion.

Walker makes no pretense of being clever, but he is strong, willing and aggressive. Walker can hit and is always trying. There are some who will ridicule the statement that Mickey packs a wallop since he did knock out the veteran Britton.

That is rather unfair to Walker, since in Britton he met just about the cleverest man in the ring. Only four months ago the brilliant Tony Leonard was unable to fathom Britton's air-tight defense with any degree of success.

In the twelfth round of the Walker fight, the referee, seeing that Britton was in none too good shape, suggested that he admit defeat. Jack merely smiled, however, and remarked that he would go the limit unless he got in the way of one of Walker's wild swings.

When Britton saw that he was in trouble, he simply protected himself in every way and made it almost impossible for Walker to reach the vital spots. Mickey unconsciously punched to knock out a half dozen fighters, but Britton was always either picking them out of the air, or else blocking them in such a way that they never got home.

Dave Shade has already challenged Walker, and it is a certainty that Shade will make things most interesting for the new title holder. Then there is Jack Malone, who recently received a decision over Walker at Boston. Jack says that he is ready to repeat whenever given the chance.

As to my way of thinking a welter who has not received the mention he deserves in connection with the welterweight class is Johnny Karr of Cleveland. This fellow Karr is a great fighter. Only recently he shaded Malone. It wouldn't surprise me a bit if Walker finds Karr more troublesome than any other contender for the title.

DO AWAY WITH MANAGERS IS NEW IDEA IN BOXING CIRCLES

NEW YORK — Maintaining that boxing's chief source of trouble comes from petty larceny and grand larceny managers, William Muldoon, chairman of the New York Boxing commission, breaks out with a novel idea.

Muldoon would give all the managers the air and let the commission handle their affairs.

He thinks well of a plan to have a booking office in the headquarters of the commission where boxers could register for work.

Five per cent of the boxer's purse would be exacted as a commission of the expenses of maintaining the employment agency.

Bennett Sets New Record

The much sought Transcontinental Motocycle Record has received two more blows within the last 60 days. In September the old record, held by Alan Bedell, was broken by no other than the well known E. G. "Cannonball" Baker of Indianapolis, by 17 hours and 24 minutes in a truly wonderful display of human endurance and motorcycle mechanical perfection.

This record was however short lived for Wells Bennett of Los Angeles arrived in New York at 6:14 p. m., October 31st, cutting Baker's record 7 hours and 39 minutes, a super-human performance. His total time elapsed, leaving Los Angeles at 12:01 a. m., October 23rd, till he arrived at Tottemville, S. T., New York, at 6:14 p. m., October 31st, was 6 days 15 hours and 13 minutes, covering 3,400 miles. The Bedell record was 7 days 16 hours and 16 minutes, and had stood for more than 5 years. From the time Bennett left Los Angeles until he reached Tottemville he had 12 1/2 hours sleep. He was lost in the Texas Pan Handle and pilots guided him to Dodge City, Kansas, from which point he knew the roads fairly well and found the going very good to the Missouri line, where his experience was the same as that of any transcontinental tourist, but crossed the state in 12 hours' time. He reached Tottemville in good shape in spite of the strenuous trip and lack of sleep, which speaks volumes for the rider and machine. It is freely predicted by men of experience in the trade that Bennett's record will stand for some time.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Centre versus Washington and Lee.

That game is already attracting much attention in the south.

The meeting of these two great teams is staged at Louisville, Ky., on Nov. 11.

Centre, by its great showing against Harvard, is conceded to have another wonder team. After being scored on three times in its first period, largely because it breaks favored the Crimson, Centre has played a splendid game.

Washington and Lee showed its strength in the game with We Virginia by holding that team to 12 to 2 tie. West Virginia is a powerful defeated Pittsburgh, 6 to 0, the first time such a feat has been accomplished in 20 years by West Virginia team.

While both clubs are rated as it looks as if Centre should have slight edge.

Barnstormers Win

TOKIO—The American all-star baseball team, touring Japan, defeated the Waseda University team, 13 to 0. The Americans got 15 hits and made one error. The Japanese got two hits and made four errors. A crowd estimated at 6,000 saw the game.

Johnson Hires 2 New Umpires To Join American League

CHICAGO, Ill.—The signing of two new umpires by President Johnson of the American League is an indication that he intends to shake up the personnel of his staff.

The two new men signed are "Red" Ormsby and "Ducky" Holmes. Both men umpired in the Western League last year and gave excellent satisfaction in that circuit.

Ormsby is a product of the Chicago sandlots. He is a big, husky fellow, who gets his nickname because of the color of his locks. While he has only had a few years experience in the minors he is regarded as one of the best umpiring prospects in the country.

Holmes, of course, is not the original "Ducky," as all players by the name of Holmes are known as "Ducky." Holmes was a good minor league player. He was a catcher. When his playing days were ended because of an injury he took to umpiring.

Holmes has worked in a number of minor leagues, among them being the American Association. A year ago he received a short trial in the National League, however, he failed to get the purchase price, asked and he lost his big chance.

President Heydler of the National League says there will be at least two new men on his staff. A number of umpires were tried out by him in the close of the season. Good umpires appear to be much harder to land than star ball players.

TIGERS TO FIGHT FOR POSITION

Ty Cobb says there is only one debatable position on his ball club, third base. Bobby Jones and Fred Haney will fight it out for that position. If Jones is able to keep physically fit, he will have the call. A bad stomach raised havoc with his game last year.

Haney whether he wins the third base berth or not, is certain to be retained. He is a valuable man to have around for utility purposes. He can play any position in the infield and in a pinch, do a pretty fair job in the outfield.

Blue will be at first, Pratt at second and Rigney at short. In the outfield will be Cobb, Heilmann and Veatch. Bassier, Woodall and Vannion will look after the catching.

The pitching of course is a question. Cobb expects great things from "Rip" Collins, secured from Boston. Collins has had a good season and Johnson should arrive with a bang in 1923. The rest of the staff is a bit uncertain.

The Big 11 A. C. basketball team wishes to book games with any team in the vicinity. For further particulars address Franklyn Dean, 623 N. Collett-st., Lima, Ohio.

ST. JOHN'S CHOOSES CHEER LEADER

Choice of cheer leader at St. John's high school for the basketball season at Delphos will fall on Frank Stiplich. He has had experience in leading up the "locomotive," the team rah, the victory and other yells of the roster's repertory.

A special bloc of seats will be given over to the cheer section, and the St. John's five will not lack for student support.

Louis Justus and "Speck" Kessler, a local puglist of note who is a cage star himself, will handle the whistle for all local games. Justus is a Purdue university man.

The management is putting out 300 tickets for a practice game Tuesday night with Glandorf. The rowdies will come following Friday when St. John's plays the strong Decatur, Indiana fire.

It has been announced that St. Rose, of Lima, has accepted the date of November 24 for a game in Delphos. St. John's defeated St. Rose last season 16 to 14. Beyond that contest, Manager Hilary Sheibley has announced nothing definitely for his schedule.

First practice for a week was held by the team Thursday night. Earlier practice was impossible owing to work on the floor.

STADIUMS CHANGE FOOTBALL STYLE

(BY BILLY EVANS)

In every sport plenty of action, speed, is the fundamental feature if the game is to continue to meet with popular favor.

Since the introduction of the forward pass, which features the open-style game, football has rapidly advanced in public favor because the game has been speeded up.

The open game has supplied the element of uncertainty, it has enabled the spectator to more closely follow the ball, which, of course, means follow the action. But best of all it has speeded up the action.

The increased popularity of football during the past 10 years has caused any number of the leading colleges to build new stadiums that would house the crowds anxious to see the big teams in action.

These new stadiums have been a great thing for the spectator, but in one respect they have slowed the game. I am wondering if there is any solution for it.

The action of the football stadiums are such that when a crowd starts cheering it is absolutely impossible to hear signals called. The shout of the quarter-back calling the next play fades into nothing, before the yells of the rival students and alumni.

For that reason it is necessary that before each play the team having possession of the ball go to a close conference. At such a conference either through the use of the regular signals or in some other way the quarter unfolds to his teammates the next play.

It is possible that it doesn't take much more time to give the signals in this manner than by the ordinary lineup in which the signals are called after the players assume their respective positions. It seems twice as long.

However it is the looks of the thing that hurts. It takes you back to the days when rival teams would be selected from a bunch of boys, and a bunch of numbers that meant little or nothing to the spectators, but carried a message to every player on the team in possession of the ball.

The acquisition of most of the new stadiums have eliminated that feature of play, which I am sure is far more pleasing to the eye than the next-play conference as now held.

Another question arises with this new stadium condition which makes it impossible for those in the play field to hear because of the shouts of their supporters. Just how much time shall a team be permitted to take in holding such a conference?

If a team in a certain period had a crisis, and blowing against them there might be a desire to delay things as much as possible to kill time. Late in the game the tactics might be adopted with profit. Several times Saturday I noted the officials warning the teams about using up too much time in the before-play conferences.

However, it seems to me the new stadiums, with all the advantages offered, have added one undesirable feature—these conferences. It wouldn't surprise me if this feature came in for some consideration by the rule makers.

FOUND! DIRECTOR WHO THINKS PUBLIC THINKS!

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

ARTHUR MAUDE is an unusual sort of movie director. He believes the fellow who digs the girl who stands behind the counter and the man who works at a bench possess a sense of beauty.

As an earnest of his belief he has started a series of films devoted to the gospel of beauty and he believes the masses will flock to the theater to see them.

"Beauty does not mean the elimination of conflict," Maude says. "Conflict is essential to drama, but that conflict need not be common sex or physical conflict. Conflict of two wills, of two natures, can be shown as dramatically as physical conflict."

"Too many pictures today play down to what a not overly intelligent producer may consider the intelligence of the masses. They do not hit the mark because they aim too low. The average person wants entertainment that inspires thought. He, or she, does not go to the theater just to kill time."

Maude's little speech might sound like the empty words of one of those chatterboxes who are always prating about what ought to be done to improve the movies but never do anything.

However, Maude is the man who wrote the stories for "The Beggar Maid," "The Bashful Suitor" and "The Young Painter," two-reel dramas based on famous paintings. He wrote and directed "The Song of the Lark." The predominating element of those films was beauty—beauty of story and pictorial composition.

"The Angelus," the famous Millet painting, will be the subject of Maude's next film. Other paintings to serve as the basis for subsequent films are "The Doctor," by Luke Fildes; "The Mother," by Sir John Lavery.

Evidently Maude does believe the masses think that the average adult intelligence is an adult intelligence.

Sigma Offers Sennett Film and Local Made Movie

THERE'S so much to the Sigma's program this week that we hardly know where to begin—Mack Sennett's "Crossroads of New York," Willard Gram's "Topics, Irving Cummings' two-reel drama of mountain life—a nice little list of features that takes up the better part of two hours.

Mr. Gram's feature, which he wrote, directed and photographed, shows that amateur movies can display the same smoothness of continuity, the same plots, and the same splendid photography as their professional sisters. This one, "The Crossroads of Lima," is a cleverly-conceived little affair, with local people in the various roles, showing the department, and various interesting "shots" of the city. The cast without exception, does excellent work, and Mr. Gram is to be commended for his part in the ultimate success of the undertaking.

Sennett's "Crossroads of New York" is a cross between a comedy, a comedy-drama and a melodrama.

In "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" You Weep Copiously

OF COURSE you have heard that oft-repeated and well-worn saying about the lady (they never mention the men) who saw a picture and came out of the theatre enthusiastically saying, "Oh, it was just WONDERFUL! I cried and cried!"

Meaning to convey that women can enjoy themselves shedding tears, as well as any other way.

Well, here's "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" that makes the tears flow copiously, unless you're hard-hearted like I am, for at the opening of the production at the Lyric on Sunday, handkerchiefs were much in evidence.

The great thing about this picture, taken from the old time novel and play, is that after you have seen it, you are prepared for the most heart-rending drama that could ever happen. You have seen the champion sob-story of the screen.

There you sit, watching the poor little girl with the weak lungs, wearing a tattered shawl and followed by her faithful little dog, permitted by her hard-working and shrunken mother to wade thru the sleet and snow to go right to Slade's, which is a saloon.

Here's a One-Hoss Film at the Faurot

THIS is a "one hoss" story. It's all about Tony, the most wonderful, smartest, sleekest and swiftest piece of horseflesh you ever saw. The story is written about him and he is hero and villain—with Mr. Tom Mix of course, helping a little on the side. Isn't it wonderful the way they can train a horse to do things?

Scenery, sets, cast, photography, Mr. Mix, and so on, are about the same as they always are in the Mix pictures, which you know by this time are west-gals with plenty of punch and go. Tony, however, provides the "something different" about which we rant so much, and it is with great pleasure that we are able to say, Tony not only is some horse, but some actor as well!

The adventures of people with whom the horse is associated also provides a nice little tale, and the outcome of the entire story is mighty pleasant.

On the same program with "Just Tony," appears the "Knox Quartet," a splendid aggregation of vocalists whose quartette numbers are extremely well given. Then there's a funny Al St. John comedy, a special release, they tell me, which constitutes one of the most entertaining programs in the city.

Again on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Hal Kiter Enters on Last Week Here

PERSONS of the New Orpheum who for the past five weeks have enjoyed the many programs given by the Billy Ilen Co., featuring Hal Kiter as the comedian, learn with regret that this week is the closing engagement in the city of this popular company.

For the attraction the first of this week, the company is offering "The Time, The Place, The Girl," a breezy, fast-moving musical comedy which combines clever comedy, tuneful music and special features.

Elsie Ryan in "The Intimate Strangers"

MISS ELSA RYAN, one of the most gifted and popular star comedienne on the American stage today, has returned from a tour in vaudeville to her first love, the legitimate stage, and will be presented by Augustus Pitou in the new whimsical comedy "The Intimate Strangers" by Booth Tarkington, at the Faurot Opera House tonight. In her new starring vehicle, Miss Ryan has a part that displays to the full those remarkable and lovable qualities that endeared her to American audiences in "Peep at My Heart," "Ten for Three," "Peep for Short," etc. The passing years have only added to and heightened her charm, matured her art and made more compelling the appeal of her dainty and magnetic personality. If her present brilliant characterization of the part of Isabel Stuart, the New England lady of uncertain age, she has added to her galaxy of roles one that will stand out cameo-like, for its tenderness, its gentle whimsical humor and its wistful pathos. From the first ripple of her happy laughter to the final "Good night dear," at the close of the charm and grace of Elsie Ryan dominate the action of the play that is delightfully pleasing and refreshingly wholesome.

"Young Rajah" Attracts Large Crowds at Quilna

THIS picture, "The Young Rajah," while a perfect selection to display the various charms and personality of Rodolph Valentino, doesn't seem to give him a big opportunity to act. And Rudolph Valentino is an extraordinarily good actor. He proved that in "The Four Horsemen," and "Blood and Sand." On well, the majority of us are not particular whether his histrionic ability displayed or not as long as Rudolph is THERE.

In the story, Rudolph has an incident horn or what's his own wish to call it, between his eyes when he undergoes the mystic rance of being lit up like a flashlight. It seems to be inherited this luminous bump with it by some ancient who rode come a member of the Harvard rowing crew. (A broad jump there, but that's how "no story goes."

GIRLS DON'T MARRY

"RICH MEN'S WIVES"

By this time you know that Rudolph wasn't a dyed-in-the-wool Indian fortune-teller. He was born in India but came to America and was adopted by a nice old gentleman who sent him to Harvard. There he milled around a bit and fell in love with Wanda Hawley, whose father doesn't believe in Indian mysticism, not at all.

Not that it is at all probable, it isn't. But the role invests Mr. Valentino with many an opportunity to appear fantastic, decked out in beads and things, and fully exploits his wistful personality.

So much for "The Young Rajah," it certainly is attracting wide attention, whether the thing is possible or not.

At the Quilna three more days, including today.

KEEPS CHILDREN WELL AND STRONG

THIN, pale, impoverished blood makes children frail, backward and delicate.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan creates a bountiful supply of pure, red blood, restores bodily strength, brings back color to the cheeks and builds firm, well-rounded flesh.

For over 35 years Gude's Pepto-Mangan has been recommended by leading physicians as a tonic and blood enricher. Your druggist has it—liquid or tablets, as you prefer.

A sure, safe way to end CORNS

In one minute you can end the pain of corns with Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads. They remove the cause—friction—pressure. You risk no infection from cutting; no danger from corrosive acids.

Zino-pads protect while they heal. They are antiseptic, waterproof. Sineas for corns, callouses, bunions. Get a box today at your druggist or shoe dealer's.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads
Made in the laboratories of The Scholl Mfg. Co., makers of Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort, Epsomite, Arch Support, etc.

The Great San Francisco Fire

Sixteen years ago April 14, 1906, San Francisco was visited by one of the most appalling catastrophes in American history—hundreds perished—thousands were homeless—property worth millions destroyed, the city water supply was cut off and the city faced dangers of pestilence and famine.

Frankly

We never can understand why the average young man hasn't got a savings account. Doesn't he ever think of possible illness, an accident, a long lay-off, marriage, a home,—any one of the thousand-and-one things that necessitate money in comparatively large quantities?

If so, why doesn't he save? Not necessarily at this bank—al- tho we believe our facilities and service a little better—but some- where, so when he wants and needs the long green, he'll have it.

Do you know the answer?

FIXED GOAL WINS FOR INSULL

Sticks to His Purpose Despite Flattering Offer.
BECOMES BUSINESS POWER

Englishman Steps in As Edison's Right Hand Man

(BY E. C. FORBES)
NEW YORK. (Special).—An official of the United States Steel Corporation informs me that the seven-day week has been completely abolished throughout all its plants for quite a long time.

This is encouraging news.

One bleak November evening, a poor but ambitious young London clerk who, in his spare moments, had contrived to learn shorthand, stood on the dingy underground railway platform at King's Cross waiting for a train to take him to the home of Thomas Gibson Bowles, proprietor and editor of the Century Magazine. It chanced that a week salary by earning a few shillings as a stenographer after his regular day's work was done.

To while away the time during the drab ride in London's "sewer," the lad resolved to buy something to read, and his choice fell upon an American magazine, the old Century. It chanced to contain an article on the electrical experiences and achievements of one Thomas A. Edison, then hardly known in Europe. The writer was Francis R. Upton, one of Mr. Edison's aides, and the story he told was fascinating.

Not very long after this the real estate agent and auctioneer to whom the clerk was engaged decided that he could cut expenses by engaging an "articled" clerk—an apprentice who would serve for nothing. So the paid clerk answered a "situation vacant" advertisement in the London Times.

The advertiser turned out to be Colonel George E. Gouraud, the English representative of Edison and the resident director in London of the Mercantile Trust Company of New York, then owned by the Equitable Life. Colonel Gouraud was favorably impressed by the youth's enterprise and experience, for in addition to his daily task and his shorthand writing for the famous Bowles, he had found time to do secretarial work for Sir George Campbell, a noted member of parliament.

He was engaged as Colonel Gouraud's secretary and then resolved to strive to become secretary to Edison himself the wonder-working hero of the magazine story.

In his new position with Colonel Gouraud, he not only did his full day's work but, as a possible spare time, he took to his goal, made himself useful at night to Edison's technical representative in England, E. H. Johnson, who was then assisting in the formation of the Edison Telephone Co. in London. To Mr. Johnson he confided his ambition.

The abilities, the enthusiasm and the indomitable energy of the young secretary began to be noted by Americans visiting the Edison headquarters, and before long he received an attractive offer from the most prominent international banking house in America to come to New York. Acceptance would have diverted him from his purpose, so he refused the offer and continued to wait for the chance.

One day the cable brought the message he had waited for and worked for. Thomas A. Edison wanted him as his private secretary. Who do you think the youth was? Samuel Insull, who became Edison's right hand man, and who is today one of the most powerful men in the city and who has developed the Commonwealth Edison Company into the most gigantic central power station in the world; he stepped in when things were critical and took hold of Chicago traction problems with a skillful hand; his services as a director are in demand by the biggest corporations in the city; and when the Chicago opera threatened to hit the rocks it was Sam Insull who took the helm and boldly steered it toward the high goal it now promises to reach.

Mr. Insull was in New York yesterday and delivered a most thorough address before the Bond Club on raising capital locally for public utility enterprises.
